The electromagnetic force is carried by electromagnetic fields composed of electric fields and magnetic fields, and it is responsible for electromagnetic radiation such as light. It is one of the four fundamental interactions (commonly called forces) in nature, together with the strong interaction, the weak interaction, and gravitation.

What turned me off as an undergrad, and to this day is the biggest flaw in the book, is the way some derivations are presented. Rather than being hand holding and walking you through, or even eloquently referencing well known equations by name, most of the time Wangsness will simply list off a set of equation numbers and list the result.
